PEACE OR WAR TO BE OFFERED.

Fright of the Peace Commissioners-The Modocs Seeking for Allies.

INSOLENCE OF THE INDIANS.

Fears of a Coalition of the Tribes - Great Exoitement Among the Settlers.

(By courier to Yreka, Cal.), March 30, 1873. Another ten days will probably clapse before the it be peace or war. I have great faith, however, that the presence of the military in such close proximity to their strenghold will tend to make Captain Jack more reasonable in his demands, and perhaps result in his accepting the terms offered and the final settlement of that branch of the Modoc tribe on some distant reservation.

DISPOSITION AND NUMBER OF THE TROOPS.

Major Edwin C. Mason, of the Twenty-first infan try, is commanding the troops encamped on the east side of Tule Lake, about three miles from Captain Jack's cave. His division comprises compa nies C, B and L of the Twenty-first infantry, troops B and G of the First cavalry and a detachment of the Fourth artillery, with two howitzers. The troops at this camp, consisting of troops F, K and H of the First cavalry, batteries E, A and M of the Fourth artillery, and two companies of Twelfth infantry, leave here to-morrow en route for their new camp in the lava beds at the foot of the bluffs. Major Green, of the First cavalry, is in command of this division, and the entire army, amounting to about seven hundred men, is under the command of General Gillem. Colonel of the First cavalry.

We will camp to-morrow night at Klamath Lake, about half way between Van Bremer's and the lava beds, and finish our journey on Tuesday. RATTLESNAKES AND REBELS.

Major Mason reports that the lava beds swarm with rattlesnakes and scorpions and platoons of rebels that will not add to our personal comfort. Roston Charley came in from the lava beds vester day and returned to-day with the intelligence that the troops were coming up to see them. The members of the Peace Commission and General Canby will move to-morrow with the troops, and we shall probably have a big powwow with the Modocs before the end of the week.

JACK LOOKING FOR ALLIES.

Hooker Jim and three others of Captain Jack's band were up at Yianax reservation the other day, and it is feared they were trying to seduce the pesceable Indians to join their party. The troops will make no aggressive movement until the Peace Commissioners have been allowed to exercise their talking faculties, but moral persuasion of a warlike nature will be introduced.

The Military in the Lava Beds-Fright of the Peace Commissioners-A Long Powwow with Captain Jack and His Braves. LAVA BED CAMP, April 2, 1873.

Van Bremen's ranch and camped that evening on Klamath Lake. They started again early yesterday morning, and arrived at the top of the bluffs about noon. The Peace Commissioners were with the command, and were evidently much disappointed at not finding the Indians out to meet them, as they had promised to come out Tuesday morning to talk. The afternoon was devoted to the bust

GOING INTO CAMP at the foot of the bluffs on the southern shore of Tule Lake. The wagons were obliged to remain up shove, and the baggage and provisions were packed down on tents. The camp is tolerably well located on the west side of the lava beds and is about two and a half miles from Captain Jack's cave. There is plenty of water and grass, but wood is scarce and has to be packed from the top of the bluffs.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS CAPTAIN JACK. Yesterday evening Boston Charley came in from Captain Jack's and said that His Royal Highness would be ready to talk to-day.

The night passed away very quietly, with the exception of a scare on the part of two members of the Peace Commission, Messrs. Meacham and Dwyer. These gentlemen are certainly rather nervous regarding the safety of their hair, and the former aroused General Gillem in the middle of the night with some squaw yarn that the Modocs were going to attack the camp. General Gillem put out an extra picket in order to calm the PEARS OF THE DESCIPLES OF MORAL SUASION, who also took the precaution to sleep with his boots on, in order to be ready for a run across the rocks. The Rev. Mr. Thomas is the only Peace Commissioner here who appears to understand his business and treats with the Indians as if he was not airsid of them.

This afternoon General Camby, the Peace Commissioners, Mr. Riddle and squaw and the old chief Schonchin and the staff had a talk with Captain Jack, John Schonchin, Scar-Paced Charley, Shacknasty Jim, Hooker Jim and four or five others of the leading men of the tribe. The powwew was held about half a mile out of camp, and the press representatives were excluded by orders of the Peace Commissioners and not by the Indians, as the latter had nothing to conceal. Jack and Schonchin both made long speechess, in which they recapitulated what they said to the HERALD correspondent on the occasion of his first visit relative to his stay on Klamath reservation and the origin of the first fight. The Peace Commissioners, never having heard this speech before, were much delighted, and intimated after their return that they have great hopes of arranging a treaty to-morrow.

AID AND COMPORT FOR THE ENEMY. Mary, Jack's sister, came in during the after oon and was given ninety pounds of biscuit, which she carried back to reinforce the commis sary of the wat riors in the lava beds. Wild Galmy lostess has come in and states that she does not intend going back, as her William has taken unto himself another bride-a Marmon practice to which she decidedly objects. There is to be another big talk to-morrow, and I sincerely hope the Peace Commissioners will gain their end. I am, however, rather sceptical on that point, and maintain that the Modocs will have to be "licked" before they can be induced to go on a distant reservation.

THE MILITARY CLOSING UP. Orders have been sent to Colonel Mason, com manding the forces on the east side of the lake, to move up and camp at Hospital Rock, a point about s mile and a half to eastward of Captain Jack's promised to come next Sunday. were seen at Aikali Lake, where they corralled seventy-five horses. On the following Tuesday the same Indians were seen at Yamox Reservation where they talked all night.

THE MODOCS AND THE KLAMATHS urged them to join Captain Jack. Hooker Jin said that five tribes of Indians were ready to join Captain Jack whenever he could told the reservation indians that it would not be safe for them to remain friendly to the whites. During the night he sent two squaws to a white man named Jordan to buy powder, but the latter refused to sell any.

EXCITEMENT AMONG THE PEOPLE. The people of Sprague River are greatly excited and are leaving the country near the reservation of the Modecs. The Klamath Indians are also seriously alarmed. The people living near Goose Lake have petitioned the Governor at Oregon for INSOLENCE OF THE INDIANS

The Peace Commissioners have had a talk with Modocs, who made the same old speeches. They refuse the proposition for their re-moval, and want to be let alone and to have the troops sent away. Captain Jack is insolent and overbearing. He said that he had already stated his terms; he knew no other coun try and would go to no other. Schonchin's speech was to the same effect.

THE HERALD AS A BUSINESS ORGAN.

(From the Phi adelphia Evening Herald, April 1.) For the past two or three years the NEW YORK HERALD has been in the habit each day of issuing supplements of four or eight pages to its regular editions in order to accommodate its extensive and growing advertising patronage, and the thing had become so monotonous that we were hardly esake on Sunday last in the distended form of a quadruple sheet, with supplement, in all eighteen pages-making the largest daily newspaper ever published. Nearly twelve pages were taken up with advertisements, numbering over three thouand separate announcements—the receipts for which must have amounted to a small fortune. This is an old story, but this incident seemed to

[From the Lockport (N. Y.) Journal, April 1.] The Naw York Herald on Sunday last pu lished a quadruple sheet, with supplement, con-taining 108 columns of printed matter, of which sipal reason of the HERALD's success is that it prints the news, no matter where it is to be found, lumber up its columns with heavy matter and polemic dissertations like some of its logy contemporaries. That is what the people like, and so they buy the HRRALD, taking what editorial it has with fair grains of allowance.

(From the Wilmington (N. C.) Journal, April 2.] The New York Herald of Sunday last contained 108 columns of printed matter, sixty-seven of which were advertisements. In this unmistakable proof of its popularity and prosperity the Herald finds good cause for self-gratulation, For the first time since the foundation of the paper "the quadruple sheet of ninety-six columns fell so far short of the demands for space of advertisements and news as to compel the issue of a twelve-column supplement

Of Or WASHINGTON.
The Treaty of Washington: Its Negotiation, Execution, and the Discussions Relating Thereto. By Caleb Cushing. Crown 8vo., cloth, $2. The Treaty of Washington has been the theme of writers and orators without number, on both sides of the At ers and orators without number, on both sides of the At-lantic; but in the main their discussions have displayed more heat and prejudice than calm reason or knowledge, and the subject was rapidly developing into a worse-muddle than that of the old Schleswig-Holstein question. The publication of Mr. Caleb Cushing's admirable work will leave no excuse for further exhibitions of ignorance in regard to the origin of our claims against England, the efforts to obtain a peaceful and just solution of the difficulty between the two countries, and Primarily this book is a mere comp of the imaginatic meliliant and original. Secondarily, it is a shrewd a nd suggestive essay on political economy. Thirdly, it is a shrewd a nd suggestive essay on political economy. Thirdly, it is a shrewd a nd suggestive essay on political economy. Thirdly, it is a keen strip upon the political and social evils of the gage. In cilier of these characters it is exceedingly into sessing it is possible to pick thaws with the work, regarded simply as a flight of fancy, but we light most readers will prefer to view it in its second ary ended at maly as a stight of fancy, but we light most readers will find it, thus viewed, to exhibit a marketer, and will find it, thus viewed, to exhibit a marketer and will find it, thus viewed, to exhibit a marketelous strength of cain philosophy, an influence as marketelous strength of cain philosophy, an influence as marketelous strength of cain in the detection of seak points in our political, social and moral systems, stock as points in our political, social and moral systems, stock as points in our political, social and moral systems, stock as points in our political, social and moral systems, stock as a political and index which under the theorem of the search will be charmed by the well-sustained, fotion of a suppositions seeple, with manners and continuous experiments is philosophy, whose manner is not less praiseworthy than its matter. Here are thoughts that which the author has given them—minds to which they could, unaccompanied, never gain an entra see. We have rarely read a more suggestive and satisfact by book than "The Comits Race." Lettersy World, Bostyn.

HADER & BROTHERS, NEW YORK, THE TREATY

"Little Kate Kirby" is a spiriled story. All the characters in this book are drawn with care and consistency, and the plot, really complicated and troubesome, is constructed with art which has all the effect of simplicity.—Spectator, London.

On the whole this is, perhaps, the best novel that Mr. F. W. Bobinson has yet written, and it is a work of very considerable merit. The story is exceedingly interesting, and it is skillfully and dramatically unfolded. A great deal of actual experience and shrewd observation of life has been worked into the narrative, and all the characters appear to have been studied more or less directly from living models. The incidents are probably and the actions and sayings of the personages who flaure in the novel are always in keeping with their characters. There is an artistic consistency, indeed, pervading the entire work which raises it far above the average level of current fiction, and stamps it as a genuine work of the imagination. The author has evidently realized them into unity — Examiner. Londthor manifesta greak power of delivently even the contracter, and he has fused them into unity — Examiner.
